KOR STRUCTURAL · BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT

Business Development — Quick Start

Find it. Grab it. Work it. Close it. Everything below is in the KOR Operations app.

TWO KINDS OF OPPORTUNITY

A signal: somebody applying to build
A permit, rezoning or project announced months or years before any tender. The structural engineer is usually not chosen yet. Find who filed it and phone them.

A bid: somebody asking for prices
A tender with a deadline. The engineer is often chosen already, so decide quickly whether to bid. The score on each row is a hint, not a verdict.

THE STEPS

1 · OPEN IT
Home › `Business Development` › left menu `Opportunities`. Three tabs: `Signals`, `Bids`, `Mine`. Newest first; work down from the top.

2 · GRAB IT
Tick `To grab`, select the row, press `Grab selected`. It is now yours, so nobody else phones the same person, and it moves to `My Pursuits`. Not for KOR? `Not for us…`

3 · LOG EVERY CONTACT
In `My Pursuits`, open it. In `Activity log` pick Call, Meeting or Email out, type one line on what happened, press `Log`. This is how the weekly list knows you have been in touch.

4 · NEXT STEP AND FEE
`Next step…`: what you will do and by when. `Edit…` › `Proposed fee (CAD)`: a rough number is fine; without one the opportunity cannot be counted in the work ahead.

5 · THE DOCUMENTS
For Bids&Tenders tenders, the bid documents appear in `Files` by themselves, and new addenda are added daily until it closes. Add your own by dragging them onto `Files` or `Browse…`.

6 · WRITING THE PROPOSAL
`More ▾` › `Checklist…`: every requirement quoted from the RFP, checked against your draft. Empty? Ask Ian to load the RFP, or press `Add the generic checklist`.

7 · SUBMIT
`Set stage` › `Submitted`, then `Browse…` to the proposal PDF you sent; it is stored with the opportunity. The follow-ups start from that date: day 14, then day 45.

8 · CLOSE IT, WON OR LOST
`Set stage` › `Won` or `Lost`, with one line on why. For a loss, say who won (start typing the firm). This is how KOR finally learns its real win rate.

EVERY WEEK: IAN'S TO-DO LIST

An email from Ian with a numbered list: who to call, what to send, by when. Reply with one line per number; a new date moves your next step, the same as `Next step…`.

```
1. done    2. moved to Fri 30 Oct    3. dropped, went with RJC
```

START HERE

Open My Pursuits. Most of you already hold live opportunities there.
Log your last real contact on each, put a fee on the ones without one, and close out anything that is already won, lost or dead. Then grab one new signal in your region this week.
