

BD Vancouver Updates

Executive Summary — 3 September 2026

Purpose. Recap of the 3 September BD call: what is moving, what was decided, who owes what, and the dates to hold. Supporting detail (contacts, org history, opportunity records, open questions) is in the full synopsis — see Ian.

What is moving

- A seat at the owner's table. Omar's contact at Colliers is taking owner's-representative roles on the BC Cancer Vancouver expansion, the Delta Aquatic Centre, a BCIT lab and, if their bid lands, a Surrey arena, with a say in team selection. She has offered introductions to the municipal recreation director and her private-sector lead. The BC Cancer prime-consultant RFP is already on file in the app.
- Heather Lands. On Friday 28 August KOR submitted a claim to Aquilini for extra fees on Block B, for work beyond scope. It got everyone's attention, including GBL, and Aquilini told GBL's Thomas Lee to meet Jim; they had coffee on Wednesday. GBL is doing three blocks there. KOR is on Block B, Aquilini has said we get a shot at Block A (growing into a large tower), and we are going after Block C too. Jim is preparing a "designing without transfers" presentation for Aquilini's and GBL's offices, with JM and Omar.
- Beedie / Fraser Mills. Three parcels, three teams, a tryout. JM to confirm whether we are one of the three.
- Vancouver Island. Our proposal to BAM (Ben Smith, ex-Starlight) for Trillium's seniors housing produced a warm intro to Continuum Architecture in Victoria (partners Jeremy Beintema and Wil Wiens), who appear to hold most of that developer's work. Rory to follow up.
- Stantec. We are now on Stantec's qualified-supplier list. Omar and Islam will pitch KOR to Stantec's Vancouver structural group as specialty and overflow support, the way we did with DIALOG in Edmonton.
- California. On an architect's referral, Jim put a US$1M fee proposal on three towers in San Diego. The owner then would not meet him, and it looks like they used our number to squeeze the structural engineer they had already chosen. Not won, but proof the referrals work. A separate wood-frame RFP for San Diego goes in this week. MVE, an architect in Irvine we have worked with before, responded well to the AI demo Jim and Ian gave their BD lead, then asked us to update our insurance with them, which Jim reads as keeping us qualified. Jim or JM will visit them around the LA Tall Building Conference in November.
- Market read. Concrete high-rise is in a holding pattern; Rize's Cambie and Marine tower is stalled on offshore capital. "Hopefully next year" is what everyone is hearing.

Decisions

1. Health-sector architect outreach runs from one coordinated target list, one owner per contact, so three people do not call the same architect. Ian prepares the list and talking points.
2. Seismic assessments and change-of-use work (office to hotel or residential, S3 bylaw thresholds) become a promoted service line. Quote the report only; the upgrade work follows. Rory suggested a website and LinkedIn blurb, Ian will draft it; Omar raises it with Colliers as the thing we can do for them.
3. The Stantec pitch belongs to Omar and Islam.
4. Omar to become gatekeeper of inbound opportunities in the app; he and Ian sit down next week. Ian gets Jim onto the current build so the Teams spreadsheet can retire.

Owner by owner

- Omar: Take up the Colliers introductions, and ask Colliers what change-of-use work they are seeing. Keep on his contact at NDY, the mechanical engineer who will recommend KOR for seismic restraint on his tenant-improvement jobs when nobody else is on board. Run the office-to-hotel seismic assessment: NDA first, then their structural drawings, then a fee for the report. Make the same offer to the Coal Harbour hotel developer. Pitch Stantec with Islam. With JM, follow up the contact who used to work at the Port Authority.
- Jim: Prepare the "designing without transfers" presentation for Aquilini and GBL. Lunch with Giovanni Gunawan at Aquilini. Get the San Diego wood-frame RFP in this week. Lunch at CDA on the 11th with Omar. Call Michael De Cotiis at Pinnacle for lunch after the long weekend. Check with Daler that MVE's insurance update went back.
- JM: Call Gwyn Vose at Arcadis for lunch. Confirm with Beedie whether we are one of the three Fraser Mills teams. Set up Calgary, reaching Anthem and GGA directly. Introduce Conor to Berry Architecture's new Kelowna studio. Call Brad Burnett at ITC. With Omar, follow up the contact who used to work at the Port Authority. MCM is worth a visit; JM's contact Peter Odegaard is a partner there.
- JB: Lunch with Colin Bosa in October, set up through Robert. A one-on-one with Gerry Nichele, the decision maker at Solterra, this week or early next.
- Rory: Go and see Continuum Architecture in Victoria. Ben Smith gave Jim two names there as a soft intro, Jeremy Beintema, a principal, and Gregory Eeman, the two working on the Trillium job KOR proposed on; Jim has put them in the spreadsheet. Ask Ike about the Perkins&Will invite. The conversions blurb was Rory's idea; Ian drafts it.
- Islam: Set up the meeting with KRA's Vancouver team, the healthcare architects Islam met in Edmonton. Pitch Stantec with Omar. Book JM's Calgary meetings.
- Conor: Graham night, and find two more invites. Press Lauren Macaulay at Arcadis Kelowna for the three developer introductions. Follow Stefan Hertel, who has left Mission Group, to wherever he lands.
- Ian: Build the architect target list and talking points. Send Omar a list of events worth showing up at to bump into these people. Recon on the Port Authority. Send Rory the Island intel and the Continuum contacts. Draft the conversions blurb. Get Jim onto the app and set Omar up as gatekeeper. This recap.
