The BD Radar — Quick Start

Find it. Grab it. Phone them. Log it. That is the whole job.

MINE
WHAT YOU CLAIMED

THE ONE DISTINCTION THAT MATTERS

A SIGNAL is somebody applying to build

Months or years before a tender. The structural engineer is usually NOT chosen yet. This is where a relationship gets made — find who filed it and phone them.

A BID is somebody asking for prices

The engineer has almost always been chosen already. Decide whether to bid, by the deadline. You are competing on price, not position.

Signals is sorted newest first

A signal has no deadline but it goes cold. Something filed last week is a phone call; something from 2017 is history. Work down from the top.

The score is a hint, not a verdict

It reads the words in the application, so a project described badly scores badly. Open anything that looks interesting regardless of the number.

THE LOOP, AND THE OTHER SCREENS

1 · OPEN IT

Home › Business Development › Opportunities. Three tabs: Signals, Bids, Mine.

2 · LEAVE THE FILTERS ALONE

“Smaller work collapsed” hides sheds, decks, signs and single houses. It says how many it hid; “Show” brings them back.

3 · READ WHO FILED IT

The applicant is usually the architect or developer. That is the person worth knowing.

4 · PRESS GRAB

The green button on the row. It claims it under your name so two of us don’t phone the same person, and moves it into My Pursuits.

5 · WORK IT IN MY PURSUITS

Contacts, calls, stages, files. “Brief” builds a one-page PDF on any opportunity to send.

Future Projects

Big projects announced years out. US managers — your California work is here.

All Pursuits

Everybody’s live pursuits, coldest first. The manager view.

Relationships

Search a company → everything we know and who we know there.

Scorecard · Market History · Engagements

Wins and fee · who has won what historically · who we approached and whether it converted.
